

Lori Kersey Williams, Clinton Community Fellows Director, is currently leading the new program which links talented, Wilmington-connected college students with local businesses as well as community service experiences. There are currently four Fellows in the 2010 program.

Lori is a Bowling Green State University graduate with a Bachelor of Science in Education and has completed graduate work in program management. She worked for ABX Air, Inc for more than 22 years, most recently as a business process analyst. She is a certified Project Management Professional (PMP), with training in a variety of areas relating to process improvement, including Lean Manufacturing and Six Sigma.

She has been involved in numerous community organizations, including serving as president of the Clinton Rails to Trails Coalition and currently is vice-president of the Lytle Creek League of Conservators and Treasurer of the Clinton County Foundation. She continues to lead the local effort, No Child Left Indoors, which conducts programming to connect children with nature.

Awards include the national Community Leadership Association 2005 Distinguished Leadership Award, Clinton County Leadership Institute Leadership Award for 2004, and Outstanding Women of Clinton County 2006.

She lives in Wilmington with her husband, Mark, and has two grown children, Tyler and Brandon.
